Variety of Matters Discussed by Trustees

As our city grows, as new residences are erected and new businesses are established, the responsibilities and duties of the members of the city board increase and multiply.

Street improvement, health and safety, water and light, zoning regulations, a building code, taxation, sewer construction—all these and many other matters must be handled by the board in a business-like and legal manner.

The position of trustee is no sinecure. The business transacted last Monday night at the regular monthly meeting was as follows:

A communication from H. W. Askew was read making application for the position of inspector of the street work, contracts for which were awarded Sidney Ruthven at the last meeting. Askew's request was endorsed by the board.

The request of certain property owners on Santa Lucia Avenue for a change in the sewer-laying specifications was referred to City Attorney Argyll Campbell and Trustees W. T. Kibbler and J. B. Dennis.

Miss Mary E. Bulkeley addressed a letter to the board protesting against what she terms "The wholesale slashing and cutting of trees," singling out certain trees which she thought should be saved. Placed on file.

Frank H. Short addressed the board concerning the overflow of storm water on his property at Mountain View and Santa Fe avenues. The recommendation was made that those responsible for this state of affairs should be looked to for redress. The city is in no way responsible.

A. P. Fraser, deputy assessor, reported that his work was progressing satisfactorily. Mr. Fraser also announced that anyone desiring to confer with him regarding their assessments may do so at any time during the day at the city hall. Mr. Fraser's tenure of office was extended.

The action of Judge Charles Hecker in dismissing certain violators of the traffic ordinance was a matter for discussion. It seems that of nine arrests made by Marshall Englund, only two defendants were fined. The matter was referred to Trustee H. P. Larouette to take up with Judge Hecker.

On the motion of Trustee Helen W. Parkes, the board endorsed the project sponsored by the fire department, to install flag-poles on the sidewalks in front of business places.

Permission was granted to All Saints Church to erect a sign on Monte Verde street near the church.

The board adjourned to meet on April 20, to take up important matter, the principal one of which is the proposed building ordinance, and at which the building contractors will be present.

HAMMOND FAMILY RETURNS TO EASTERN HOME

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hammond and family left Carmel last Wednesday morning for their New Hampshire home. The Hammonds are motoring and expect to take the summer for the trip east. Their first stop will be near Santa Fe, N. M., where Mr. Hammond expects to do a month's desert sketching.

During their year in Carmel, Mr. and Mrs. Hammond contributed much to our life and enjoyment. Not only were many visitors made welcome to Mr. Hammond's studio and given the pleasure of viewing his strongly interesting paintings, deep water of the Atlantic, colorful Gloucester fishing boats and our own fascinating shore, but he was most hospitable in spirit to other artists, visiting and resident alike, who shared his vigor and inspiration on numerous trips down the coast, onto the California desert and into the mountains.

During this week a number of Carmelites have been flagged in Monterey for wrong parking and other traffic rule violations.

My, My! How He Loves Monterey

As forecasted in last week's Pine Cone, the Railroad Commission has set a date for a public hearing concerning the application of the Telephone company for permission to establish a "central" in this city, and to inaugurate a five-cent toll charge for service outside the "Carmel area." The hearing is to talke place on Thursday, April 23, at the Monterey Chamber of Commerce quarters.

Shinebarger, of the Pacific Grove Review, takes another whack at Monterey via the Carmel telephone controversy. He writes thusly:

"I see the telephone company has taken my view of the matter and made application to the Railway Commission to establish an exchange station at Carmel, with a toll of five cents from other Peninsula points.

"Of course the Monterey merchants are jumping stiff-legged about it, and hollering their heads off because of the extra five cents—a blooming, bucking, buffalo copper nickle—they will have to pay every time they use the line. They say it will put a 'Chinese Wall' around that part of the peninsula communities, tend to isolate Carmel, so to speak. My idea is just the opposite. An exchange station would accommodate a great many more people in Carmel than can now be reasonably served through the Monterey office, and much more promptly.

"The toll of five cents will hurt nobody except those who are in the habit of using the line for hours to lallygag and gossip, to the hindrance and annoyance of legitimate business users.

"I think that Manager Sexton has done the right thing, and hope he will be successful in putting it through. Let the grouches along Alvarado street rave and expel their load of superfluous hot air. It will only be for a day or so. Monterey is not the whole cheese in this neck of the woods, although she would like to make people think so."

MORSE ENDORSES NEW RAILROAD SCHEDULE

Concerning the change in the train service between San Francisco and Monterey, north and south, which is scheduled to go into effect on Sunday, May 3, S. F. Morse, president of the Del Monte Properties Co., expresses himself as follows:

"It seems that the new train service from San Francisco has many more advantages than have been noted by any recent articles. The service is three hours and twenty minutes which is faster by half an hour than any we have had up to the present time.

"The train arrives at Del Monte at 6:45, at Monterey about five minutes later and will make it possible for the business man in San Francisco to close up his office after banking hours and make a trip to Del Monte in time for dinner. This will certainly stimulate travel to the Peninsula. It would seem that objections to arriving at Monterey forty-five minutes later is off-set by the tremendous advantage of leaving the city an hour and twenty minutes later than the present train leaves."

Artist Knott Exhibits in Local Gallery

By Eunice T. Gray

It was my pleasure to be invited to a private view of the paintings of A H. Knott at the Hammond studio. We have had Mr. Knott with us in Carmel four years but so far he has refused to exhibit his work except in Carmel, one picture at each regular exhibition of the Arts and Crafts Society. He has plainly said he did not care to hear any comments upon his work until he had achieved, in a measure, what he had in mind as a painter. In other words, Mr. Knott did not wish the subtle influence of personal opinion to sway him from the goal he had set for himself.

He has not escaped comment entirely, as the following remarks by the art critic of Los Angeles Times will show. Mr. Anthony Anderson, in reviewing the Fifteenth Exhibit of the California Art Club in Los Angeles says:

"Come we now to the herculean vigor in paint, a masculine attack that knocks the spots out of everything around it. We find it in Ellis Fremont and A. H. Knott and to a lesser degree in a few others. No pretty sentiments about these painters; they wrestle long and hard with big brushes, charged thick with paint and emerge from the fray calm and triumphant.

"Knott's canvas 'The Sand Bar' is a small one but not one you would pass by even if you were in a hurry to 'do' the whole show in ten minutes. It has the vitality that compels attention. Its very tone, tho' low is as resonant as an organ note."

We found each of Mr. Knott's some twenty canvases possesed the "vitality that compels attention" and also filled with a freshness and originality that gave new beauty to old scenes along our Carmel shore. And is not that the happy mission of the painter, to open our eyes to the beauty around us, to present to us a mood phase that we might have missed without the interpreter?

In "The Restless Sea," now showing at the Sixth Exhibition of Painters and Sculptors of Southern California, a deep-toned tense mood of the ocean in winter at Arrowhead Point toward Pebble Beach, we feel that the painter has caught the vast mobility and impersonality of the sea and has painted a mood that has always attracted and baffled us.

In several of his smaller pictures, one has the feeling that he has somehow got the better of the unapproachable water power, in one in particular, it is evident that Mr. Knott must have gone fearlessly close, for he seems to have caught the underside of the curve of a great wave just as it was about to break.

When questioned as to when he would give the public an opportunity to see these and later pictures, Mr. Knott refused to give us any satisfaction. "Not for a long time," he declared. "I want to do a good many things before I am ready to give a 'one-man exhibit,' perhaps go to Baja, California, first—I would like to work around those sun-baked old missions a while."

That sounds very alluring these cold, wet days, but we know that if Mr. Knott goes he will not spend many hours idling in the sunshine and we shall be greatly interested to see the result of his work in a new atmosphere and in new surroundings.

AMBITIOUS POTBOILERS

The most ambitious play ever attempted by the Potboiler Little Theater will be "The Life of Man," by Andrew, which will run for two weeks, commencing May 3. This play, which will see its first American production in Los Angeles, calls for a cast of thirty-five people, music and elaborate settings. Casting is now being done. The Potboilers did O'Neill's "Beyond the Horizon" at the Golden Bough here last summer.

Surely, This Will Be a Best-Seller

Carmel has long needed a book about Carmel. A book for the stranger who asks questions about the artists and writers past and present . . . a book for the native Carmelite who isn't always quite sure of the answers to those questions . . . a book that preserves for those who have loved the town from its beginnings, some of the stories that are a part of its unique history . . . a book that tells what Carmel is like today, from the sidewalk conferences on Ocean Avenue to the famous Sunday ball games of the Abalone League.

Such a book is "Carmel—At Work and Play," written in collaboration by Mrs. Daisy Bostick and Miss Dorothea Castelhun, and scheduled to make its appearance shortly. Its object is to give information and entertainment in equal ratio. The tourist and the old-timer alike will chuckle over the anecdotes which start from even earlier than the days when Sam Powers drove the old stage over the hill to Monterey, and include the funny things that have made life a series of thrills for producers of the Forest Theater plays.

Although the people here have always been ardently devoted to the business of having a good time, nevertheless an important amount of serious creative work has also been done. In "Carmel—At Work and Play" you will find the names of the writers and painters who have lived in Carmel in the past and those who are now making their homes here. You will also find a careful account of Carmel's dramatic activities and the names of those most closely connected with the interesting history of its three theaters. In this story of Carmel "at work" are sections devoted to the sculptors, architects, playwrights, dancers and all those who have done recognized work in the arts and crafts. Carmel's young people and their doings are also touched upon.

The beauty of this artist colony has been sung by poets, described by writers, painted by artists, and remembered by every one who has come under its spell. No book about Carmel would be complete without pictures. "Carmel—At Work and Play" shows in a series of full-page photographs, most of them never published before, as much of this wealth of beauty as can be caught by the camera. Original sketches by local artists drawn expressly for the book add a distinctive charm and greatly enhance its value to those particularly interested in Carmel as an art center.

Both the intimate knowledge of a native Carmelite looking at the town from the inside and the point of view of one seeing its charms and its peculiarities with the eyes of the visitor are incorporated in "Carmel—At Work and Play" by its two authors.

Mrs. Bostick was at one time connected with the Carmel Pine Cone, in whose columns, under the name of the "Pine Nut" she wrote a series of interesting, timely and lively articles on a wide variety of subjects, from interviews with famous celebrities to accounts of political upheavals. She has played in Carmel's games and worked for its welfare. Only one who has been so deeply interested in all aspects of the town life could command the rich fund of information which this book contains. Only one who has been such a wholehearted Carmelite could capture and embody in it that less tangible yet vitally significant quality, the true spirit of Carmel.

Dorothea Castelhun is a New Englander, but in spirit she was born a Carmelite. She gives to "Carmel—At Work and Play" that freshness of outlook that a critical stranger might have and with it a rare appreciation of the beauty of this place and its importance in the world of art. Miss Castelhun has been associated with one of the largest advertising agencies in the east and is the author of several popular books.

"The Last Laugh" at the Golden Bough

"The Last Laugh," to be shown next Friday and Saturday nights at the Theatre of the Golden Bough, is something altogether new in motion pictures. Among its distinctions are that it has no subtitles and that it is probably the only important picture ever made that is presented almost exactly as filmed. So completely was the director the master of his subject that less than two hundred feet of film was discarded during the editing process. This is not a mere matter of mechanics, of interest only to the technician, for the critics say that Director Murnau's perfection of technique is directly reflected in the tremendous and unprecedented grip in which the picture holds its spectators.

"The Last Laugh" was a great sensation in Europe. It was regarded by Berlin and Paris as the one picture without a flaw, and if the New York critics are to be depended on, its Continental reputation is fully justified. During its engagement at three of the great New York theatres it was pronounced by the reviewers in the dailies and in the magazines as the one perfect motion picture to date. Special articles have been written about it by the score, but no critic has discovered a flaw or even suggested an improvement, according to the "Literary Digest" analysis of the reviews.

Scene from "THE LAST LAUGH" WITH EMIL JANNINGS A UFA PRODUCTION RELEASED BY UNIVERSAL

The story unfolded by the picture is unusually simple. It depicts the fall and rise of an old doorman at a fashionable Berlin hotel who, resplendent in a gorgeous uniform, is the grand factotum of the establishment and an exalted personage in the humble quarter of the city in which he lives with his adoring daughter. On the eve of his daughter's wedding he is replaced by a younger man, stripped of his gold lace and brass buttons and reduced to the position of attendant in the hotel lavatory. What comes of this blow to the old man's pride, its effect upon his family and neighbors, and how by a twist of fate he rises to worldly heights he never before knew, form the story. Laughter and tears are side by side throughout.

Of the picture Robert Sherwood says, in "Life," —"'The Last Laugh' is the finest dramatic conception that has ever come to the screen." Flieler, in the New York Telegraph, says, "One of the finest productions from a human as well as from an artistic standpoint ever shown. A happy ending which strikes a high note of farce. There isn't a subtitle in the picture, yet the story comes out smoothly and with great force. Splendid." The reviewer for the "Billboard" writes, "I lack the ability to describe the beauty, the charm, the poignancy, the happiness of 'The Last Laugh.' It made me laugh and it made me cry. It is the highest point in craftsmanship that the motion picture has yet attained. There never has been such a performance on the screen." The New York World, commenting on it as a German production, said, "The film must prove a signpost to our own directors. Brilliant direction . . . virtually perfect performance." This from the New York Evening Post, "We warn you that you'd better see it. Probably no other film shown this season will stir up so much discussion, and if you want to be 'film wise' you'd better take a peek at it. . . ."

Just how it comes about that Carmel can see this extraordinary film before it has finished its first week's run in San Francisco is Edward Kuster's own little secret. An added feature will be three numbers by Paul Haakon, a lad of remarkable virtuosity who was for several years a favorite member of the Royal Ballet in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Altogether an auspicious opening for the Theatre of the Golden Bough after its period of hibernation. Motion pictures will continue every Friday and Saturday throughout the season. As stated in last week's Pine Cone, children up to twelve years of age may attend the pictures without charge if they are seated with either of their parents, but this privilege will not operate until after next week's motion picture premiere of the theatre.

Mr. Kuster states that the showing of pictures will not interfere with the rehearsal or production of the stage plays already announced, nor with the functions of the summer studio of play production which opens June first.

NONE FROM CARMEL

Over 2,000 plays were submitted in ths John Golden play contest, and these have been narrowed down to twenty-eight. Ruth Helen Davis, actress, playwright, translator and play reader for the Macloons at the Playhouse in Los Angeles, has the distinction of having one of her plays in the twenty-eight.

OH BROTHER, BROTHER!

The Hooper Cup, for which the six teams in the Abalone Baseball League have been striving for the past six weeks, was won by the Sharks, captained by Winsor Josselyn.

Arrangements are under way for a new series of games to begin shortly. There is talk of organizing a business men's team to be known as the "Crabs."

LOS ANGELES ARTIST HERE

An interesting visitor now in Carmel is Arthur Hill Gilbert, an artist of Los Angeles. Last month Gilbert exhibited twelve of his canvases in the Biltmore Salon, and is now preparing an exhibit for the Ainslee Gallery in New York.

With his friend, Albert Molendyk, Gilbert is owner of several lots in the Eighty-Acre tract, where they expect to erect a studio shortly.

PROGRESS

THE growth of Coast Valleys Gas and Electric Company last year reflects the growth of the communities of which it is a part.

We expect 1925 to be the biggest and best year in the history of the Company and the territory which it serves.

Here are a few outstanding development facts of the past year:

Electric service was supplied by this Company to 3 additional communities.

Completed one new electric substation with a capacity of 600 horsepower.

Connected new Electric Pumping Plants to the system, with aggregate total capacity of 2,334 horsepower, compared with 1,385 horsepower connected during the previous year.

Installed additional gas manufacturing equipment producing 600,000 cubic feet a day.

Extended electric service to 800 additional customers.

Brought gas service to 239 additional customers.

Distributed 36,495,713 kilowatt hours of electric energy, a gain of 33.22 per cent over 1923.

Built 112 miles of electric lines.

Laid 5 miles of gas mains. Built new 200,000 gallon water tower in Salinas, also new well and automatic pumps at Salinas and at King City.

Added 97 additional customer-shareholders during last three months of 1924; an average of over one a day.

All this was accomplished with the co-operation of our shareholders, customers and the general public.

More than 450 people, the majority of whom reside in the cities and towns which we serve, are now Preferred Shareholders in the Company and receive dividend checks regularly every three months.

KINDNESS TO ANIMALS

CHILDREN FOUND SANCTUARY

Recently the school children of Los Gatos founded a bird sanctuary, and in Palo Alto Bands of Mercy are being formed in the schools. Members of the Bands of Mercy pledge themselves to be kind to the helpless.

Sanctuary and Mercy are two of the most beautiful words in our language, and it is more important that our school children should learn the meaning of these two words than that they should learn how many miles it is from Peru to Kamchatka or the square root of 1346582.

"BALTO" AND KADSEN IN HOLLYWOOD

Balto, world-famous dog hero, and his master, Gunner Kassen Kadsen, agreed that civilization is just a maze of unimportant details.

"It all seems strange here—the crowds, the buildings, the traffic—and the climate, it is so different," declared Kadsen. "It's strange to Balto, too, and the other dogs. We must go back north soon."

The sturdy six-foot musher and his 12-dog team have come to the states from Alaska to receive the plaudits of a nation for their heroic dash to diptheria-stricken Nome. It is Kadsen's first glimpse of civilization since he left Norway 20 years ago for Alaska.

Both Balto and the musher were shy and ill at ease when admiring throngs paid them public tribute on their arrival here. If no one else understood their feelings, they at least understood each other, and they showed it.

A LEADER IN HUMANE WORK

By Ethel Soper Hardy
President, Tennessee Humane Education Society, in the Humane Record

Among the conspicuously able and well-known representatives of the humane cause in the United States is Dr. Francis H. Rowley, of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelties to Animals. He directs the policies and activities of one of the oldest, most efficient and most influential societies in the country. Its field work extends into all parts of the state, and everywhere its officers receive the cooperation of the courts and the approval of citizens.

Humaneness has been taught in the public schools for many years. Indeed we might say that the people of Massachusetts have been intensively educated along humane lines since the days of George T. Angell, one of the great pioneers in animal protection. Dr. Rowley is also president of the American Humane Education Society, an organization which publishes much valuable literature that finds its way into nearly every country in the world. Dr. Rowley is himself a writer of uncommon ability, and his leaflets and books are among the finest contributions to humane literature that we have.

A powerful and an engaging orator, the cause has few pleaders so eloquent and none more earnest. No state has better laws for the protection of animals than Massachusetts, and this fact is largely due to Dr. Rowley's frequent and forceful pleas before state legislative committees.

There are two reform movements in which Dr. Rowley is the recognized leader; namely, the fight for improved conditions in slaughter-houses with more humane methods of killing food animals, and the depopularizing and abolition of the trained animal act for commercial profit.

RADIO SOCIALLY CONSTRUCTIVE

Anyone who will take the time to study and think about the present status of broadcasting will come to the conclusion that it can have only a constructive and invigorating influence in the American social structure.

Fear of a private or government monopoly in radio broadcasting is groundless, as it would be intolerable and equivalent to granting exclusive right in the air. This would be as vicious and un-American as a monopoly in sailing the seas or navigating a great river.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover says cooperation within the ranks of the industry and a free and open competition are better than federal regulation. "Similarly, in the case of the radio, the standard of taste among broadcasters constantly improves to match the rising tide of a demand for good music, for addresses worth listening to, for subject matter that appeals to the mind when the voice has no picture for its auxiliary. For the listener has the remedy in his own hands, and with a turn of the wrist will put himself beyond the reach of the so-called entertainer who slights his opportunity and insults the listener's intelligence."

STATE FIGHTS FOR THEIR RIGHTS

Among other forms of tax reduction, there is a strong movement for repeal of all federal estate and inheritance taxes on the ground that the states need all the revenue which they yield.

A tax on capital or estates is only justified by the necessities of war and in times of peace should be abolished as rapidly as possible.

The states are fighting for their existence and their political rights on the subject of taxation as conceived by the founders of our government.

This was shown in the refusal to give Congress power to enact labor laws and all the states to provide reasonable protection for children and families in this field.

The movement of the states to assert their rights against double taxation in any form is a protest against all new federal powers of taxation. In asserting their rights in this matter in peace times, the states are only saying that accumulated capital shall not be dissipated and scattered by federal interference.

By the same token, the states are repeating Webster's dictum that "the power to tax is the power to destroy", and unless a check is placed upon Congress and the bureaus which it creates, the state governments will be reduced to unimportant administrative units.

THE LOCAL NEWSPAPER

In spite of the fact that the metropolitan press now reaches into nearly every town and village in the country, the local newspaper in the United States is each year getting on a firmer foundation and becoming more and more useful to its home community.

It may be said that the day of the metropolitan newspaper is at hand. This is true, but it is equally as true that the day of the local newspaper is here too.

The metropolitan daily with its world-wide news, its comic sheets and its magazine supplements, while of course essential in our modern civilization, cannot take the place of the home newspaper. The very fact that the big city daily must cover a broad field forbids its becoming local in any sense, and it is in the local field where the home newspaper dominates and where its finds its true usefulness.

For, after all, it is the home news which is most important to most of us. We have the greatest interest in the community in which we live, and in the people who are our neighbors and friends. And it is the local newspaper which records the town news, and in addition fosters the civic pride and progressive spirit of the community.

It is the home newspaper which boosts the town, year in and year out, which refuses to advertise the city merchants in competition with the local business men and which takes the lead in every enterprise which has for its purpose the upbuilding and prosperity of the community.

Frequently it is said that the old time independent spirit of the newspaper is gone, that its editorial policy is now subservient to the business office. This is not true. There is more unselfish idealism in the average local newspaper than in any other business enterprise. It frequently speaks out in the way which it believes will be for the good of the nation and of the community, regardless of what the consequences may be from a business standpoint. This is more than the average business man will do or can do.

The local newspaper is now on a firm business basis. This is why it is improving from year to year, why it is giving its readers a constantly better newspaper, and why it is increasing its influence for good in the community. The local newspaper is still the principal booster for the community, and it does its boosting often without any hope of material reward.

Unfortunate indeed is the community which neither appreciates nor supports its local newspaper.

CRITIC LIKES WORK OF LOCAL ARTISTS

Recently two artists well-known in Carmel have been exhibiting their paintings in San Francisco. Amos Engle's pictures were hung at the Beaux Arts Club and Ferdinand Burgdorff's work adorned the walls of the Bohemian Club.

H. L. Dungan, art critic of the Oakland Tribune, expresses himself in this wise:

"Engle paints mainly in curves and angles, all harmoniously grouped and pleasingly colored. Mostly he gets the spirit of the thing—the underlying emotional appeal. This capturing of the spirit of the thing he has achieved most successfully in his "Cypress Tree Grouping, Point Lobos." He has caught in paint that feeling or emotion one with imagination has when he views those wind-blown trees.

"Mostly he runs to reds and yellows and purples. In "Wind Blown Rain," one of his paintings that approaches normalcy, he has clung mainly to gray-blue, showing sheets of rain, wind-swept past a tree. "Theme of the Winding Road No. 2" carries vigorously the sweep of the winding road amidst squared-up landscape. Curiously his clouds fail to follow the theme of the winding road. They are just nice, old-fashioned clouds.

"Ferdinand Burgdorff's "Arizona Glow" was fortunately placed. You see it first clear across the room, a canvas of dazzling sunlight. The horizon is very low, a mere streak of land in the foreground. At the lower right corner there starts the sky in glowing yellow that vibrates up through soft greens into nearby pure blue. The sky is dotted with amazing cloud forms all beautifully shaped and wonderfully placed with relation to the other. Artificial landscape, yes; a decoration, true enough, but there a mighty sweep of clouds and a dancing glow in the sky that make the canvas a very live thing."

On April 2, at Berkeley, a son and heir entered the household of Mr. and Mrs. Hobart P. Glassell.

The end of next week will find Tilly Polak back in Carmel. She has been in Mexico several weeks.

Mrs. Roberta Leitch has returned from Oakland, where she was called by the death of her aunt, Miss Ada Morse.

The John Fertigs of Pasadena will spend the summer and part of the fall here. They have rented the Braemar cottage.

Mrs. Oscar Sutro and Miss Mary Anne Sutro are this week's guests of Mrs. Duncan McDuffies, in her home on Scenic.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. McCollom are now in San Francisco, where they will remain for some time, having taken an apartment there.

Miss Agnes Roehling, domestic Science teacher in one of Oakland's schools, spent the Easter vacation with her mother, Mrs. Henry P. Larouette.

Miss Georgia Sally White, former teacher at Sunset school, came down from Berkeley last Saturday and spent this week here, the guest of Mrs. Etha Fox.

NOTICE

The Louvre Barber Shop is reported to be on the "Unfair" List because of certain reductions in prices, and, it is reported the employees are underpaid and forced to work longer hours.

We wish to lay these facts before the public that they may judge for themselves:

As to the price reductions: We reduced Ladies' Shingle Bobs to 50c, the price charged by the Union Barber Shops in San Francisco, and most other places. Why should the ladies of the Monterey Peninsula have to pay 75c?

Many of the best shops and leading department stores throughout the State including San Francisco, charge 35c for children's hair-cutting. Why should you have to pay 50c for your children's hair-cuts?

Contrary to the report that our employees are underpaid, every barber in our employ is receiving over and above the Union scale.

As for longer hours, our shop is now open from 7:30 a. m. to 8:00 p. m., that the public may be served at their convenience, but the barbers work on a shift basis, and work the same hours as before. However, if at the end of any barbers' shift, there are patrons waiting to be served, they have the privilege of working "overtime" for which time they receive additional pay. This is a privilege denied them before but granted to other crafts.

We are at a loss to understand how a shop operating on this basis can be "Unfair" either to its employees or to the general public.

The fact that our employees remain with us in view of the numerous inducements offered them to go elsewhere seems to be proof that they are more than just satisfied with their present conditions.

ARTS AND CRAFTS THEATER

The Arts and Crafts Theater production of the three one-act plays by the San Francisco players, has been set for Friday and Saturday, May 8 and 9.

Manager Arthur Cyril is arranging to bring down from San Jose, for one night only, Irene Alexander's operetta, "The Purple Pigeon."

"The most beautiful strip of coast in all the world!" So said Mr. H. E. Maule, of Doubleday Page & Co., who was a recent Carmel visitor, speaking of the Carmel coast line, viewed from the foot of Ocean Avenue. Mr. Maule's firm is bringing out Anne Shannon Monroe's book, "Behind the Ranges" which will be published April 24th.

On Monday evening, at the home of Miss Henrietta Farley, a surprise party was tendered Miss Irene Goold in honor of her sixteenth birthday. Among those present were: Misses Mary Young, Margaret Pearson, Margaret Gillett, Blanche Bucklin of Paso Robles, Irene Goold, and Henrietta Farley. The young people danced and sang, and later in the evening had delicious refreshments.

Students of the Monterey Union high school are to register for the fall term at the close of this school year, Superintendent Graves announces. The object of this is to have the schedule arranged the day school opens. In this way there will be no delay or rearrangement of the schedule after school starts in September. This, no doubt, will prompt every student planning to return next year to make out his registration card in advance.

The revised postal regulations and rates recently enacted by Congress, go into effect next Wednesday, April 15.

Increases have been made in the money order rates, registry fees, insurance and C. O. D. service, special delivery rates, second and third class rates, and a new special handling service for parcel post packages will be inaugurated.

Full details will be given in next week's Pine Cone.

Mrs. Teresa Wetzel, mother of Ben Wetzel, one of the proprietors of the Carmel Bakery, passed away in San Francisco last Saturday morning after a brief illness. She was the mother of six children, three daughters and three sons. On receipt of the sad news Ben Wetzel left at once for the city. The funeral was held on Monday.

TO OUR ADVERTISERS

In an effort to better serve Pine Cone advertisers, some slight readjustments are made necessary in the advertising department.

It is our aim to devote more more time and thought to each "ad," thus enhancing its value to the advertiser and, incidently, to the publishers, as it will improve the general appearance of the paper.

The publishers cannot give to "last minute" copy the attention it deserves. It is in this connection particularly that we wish cooperation.

Therefore, the "deadlines" are set for the various classifications as follows:

PRODIGY AT THE GOLDEN BOUGH

As an added attraction to the showing of "The Last Laugh," the first motion picture to be exhibited at the Theatre of the Golden Bough, Edward Kuster has secured Paul Haakon, the extraordinary thirteen-year-old Danish lad whose brilliant dancing in the Royal Ballet at Copenhagen earned for him from Pavlowa the declaration that he is the world's finest juvenile dancer.

Before the showing of the picture next Friday and Saturday nights, young Haakon will dance, both on the forestage and on the main stage, several of his most charming numbers.

The theatre management has authorized the announcement that the season's opening programs will commence at eight o'clock, and that latecomers will not be permitted to interrupt the performance of Master Haakon by entering the auditorium during his numbers.
